DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE

BRITISH ISSUES AGAIN MARKED DOWN

The week-end war advices caused a good deal of nervousness in market circles, and the feature on the Dublin Stock Exchange was the further sharp marking down in the prices of British securities. There was, however, no undue selling pressure, and towards the close the tone was a shade steadier. Home issues were again quite ousy, and, although there were one or two dull spots, sentiment was good, and the tone favourable on balance.

Home Funds made a remarkably steady showing, and the only change was a slight easing in Financial Agreement Loan to 98.

Weak conditions prevailed among British Funds, and War Loan registered a fall of 27/6 at 96. Banks were dull, and Munster and Leinsters lost 1/-, while Provincial Old and Royals marked small shrinkages.

Guinness Ord. met with renewed liquidation, and closed 2/6 down at 71/9. In a small Railway market, Great Northern Guaranteed relapsed three points to 22.

Carroll Ord. and Pref. tended higher, and Goulding Deb. advanced 1/- to 97/6. Goodbody Ord. shaded off to 23/4½, but the Pref. improved to 24/-. There was a good inquiry for Cement Ord., which were bid up to 28/-, but no shares were available under 30/-.

Coats Ord. were lowered to 32/- x.d., and Courtaulds fell 1/1½ to 32/1½. B.A.T. Ord. weakened 2/3 to 92/3, and Imperial Tobaccos 1/9 to 102/-. Imperial Chemical Ord. closed pence above the lowest, but were still 1/6 down on the day at 28/3. Scottish Power Ord. were dealt in at 31/9¾.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE

BUSINESS BROUGHT TO A STANDSTILL

The week-end news from the war front brought business on the London Stock markets to a standstill yesterday, and from the start weakness was seen in nearly all sections, with several gilt-edged only fractionally above the minimum levels. At the same time, most operators kept calm, and the marking down of prices was purely the result of defensive measures by dealers. The absence of any real selling pressure did not prevent values from moving unfavourably throughout the session, however, and many substantial falls were noticeable at the close, particularly among British Rails, which were an extremely difficult market.

The initial decline in gilt-edged ranged from ¼ to a point, but a small recovery occurred later, and after reaching its minimum of 98 War Loan 3 per cent. finished the turn lower at 98⅜. Old Consols showed a loss of ¾ at 71¼. Similar recessions were marked by Victory Bonds, Conversion 3½ per cent., and Local Loans, whilst the old War Loan concluded ⅞ lower at 96¾. India Stocks held up fairly well, but Dominion and Colonial issues displayed the common trend.

The Foreign section supplied one of the few bright features in the shape of an upturn in Japanese Bonds, which eventually were about a point higher all round. Chinese Loans were unable to follow the lead given by their neighbours, and movements in Brazilians were against holders. Europeans continued unsettled.

British Rails again experienced weak conditions, and although the volume of liquidation was not large, brokers found it almost impossible to effect trasactions. Quotations throughout the list were further scaled down, and the final loss in Southern Preferred was no less than 6 points. Declines in other Junior stocks seldom exceeded a point, but the prior charges had some sharp falls. Foreign Rails also remained out of favour.

INDUSTRIALS

Industrials suffered in common with others from the precautionary marking down process, although in no section was there any real selling pressure. At the start there was a widening of dealing margins, but, so far as leading counters were concerned, quotations had become more normal at the end.

In the Iron and Steel section the lowering of prices was particularly marked, although here few shares came to market. Stewarts and Lloyds fell 1/3. United Steels were 1/4½ down. Whitehead Irons declined 1/16, and Colvilles gave way 1/1½, while shrinkages of 1/- were shown by several others. Among Electrical Equipments, Generals gave way 2/6, and Associated were 1/- down, while lower prices ruled for some of the Supply issues.

Breweries suffered in the marking down process. Distillers declined 2/6, Ind Coope and Watneys Defd. were each 2/- down. Guinness at 74/-, Courage at 50/6, Benskins at 57/-, and Mitchells and Butlers were all 1/- lower. Tobaccos were also on the dull side, with losses of 1/16 in "Bats," "Imps" and Gallahers. Bank shares gave way in sympathy with gilt-edged.

In other directions, Woolworths were 6d. lower at 55/-, and Marks and Spencers lost 3d., while Harrods shed 9d. Courtaulds fell 1/9 to 32/6, while J. and P. Coats relapsed 2/3, and English Sewings were 1/4½ down. Cable and Wireless Pref. and Ord. both finished ½ lower. Dunlops at 32/- were 6d. off. Imperial Chemicals were 1/- down, British Oxygens shed 1/16, and there were other losses.

OILS AND RUBBERS

Dullness prevailed in the Oil share market at the start, prices generally being marked down, and dealing margins widened. Towards the close, however, a small demand arose for a few of the leading counters, and more particularly for "Shells," which, after having declined to 2¾, rallied to close unchanged at 3 1/16. Royal Dutch were a more or less nominal market around 22½. Allowing for the dividend deduction Burmahs were ⅛ down at 3¼, while Anglo-Iranians lost 1/16 at 2⅜. The Eagle issues were depressed, Mexicans falling 6d. to 4s., and Canadians weakening 4½d. to 6s. 3d. Elsewhere declines of 1/16 were shown by Trinidad Leaseholds, Lobitos, Anglo-Egyptian "B," and Attock, while London and Thames fell 1s. 6d.; V.O.C. lost 1/32, and British Controlled Prefs., Apex, United British, Anglo-Ecuadorians and Kern Oils were easier.

In common with other sections the Rubber share market was unsettled yesterday. Support for the market was virtually non-existent, and with many small lines of shares coming in prices were lowered in many instances. Anglo-Dutch and Malayalams were both easier, while Rubber Trusts fell 9d. to 26s. 3d.

WOOL

BRADFORD.—Raw material supplies are being issued freely for export trade in semi and fully-manufactured goods, but supplies for home consumption continue to be restricted. Government requirements are absorbing a large proportion of the output, especially cross-bred qualities. Quotations for yarns firm at recent rates.

At the meeting of Lafayette, Limited, yesterday, the directors' report and statement of accounts for the year 1939 was submitted. The directors regretted they were unable to recommend the payment of any dividend on the Preference shares. The retiring director, Mr. Edwin W. Booth, was re-elected.

MINES

Sentiment in all sections of the Mining Market was depressed. Kaffirs were most severely hit, and it was possible to deal only in small lots. The Cape not unnaturally was depressed, but little business was transacted with that centre. While dealing conditions became slightly better in the last hour, closing prices, with a few exceptions, were the worst of the day. Several heavy losses were sustained by the producers. "Sallies" were ⅛ down at 4 3/16, after 4⅛, and Daggas fell 1/16 to 1⅞. Both the Geduld issues were ¼ lower, while a fall of ⅛ took place in Crowns. City Deeps were no better than 2⅛, and fairly substantial losses also occurred in Rose Deeps, Grootvleis, Nourse and Luipaards.

Finance shares were up to ¼ down, and in the developing mines, W. Holdings and W. Reefs showed falls of 1/-. West African and other Gold shares were also marked down.

Diamond shares were weak. De Beers Def. further declined ¼ to 5¼, and the Preference reacted to 9¼. Rhodesian Coppers failed to hold Friday's improvement. Rhoanglos dropped 10½d. to 16/3, and Rhokanas at 9⅜ showed a loss of ½. A general fall was seen in Tins, Ipohs and Pahangs were particularly depressed, both closing 1/- down. Barriers were flat.

SCIENTIFIC CULTURE

PROFESSOR HACKETT'S LECTURE

Scientific Culture: Can it exist? was the question proposed by Professor F. E. W. Hackett, M.A., Ph.D., in a lecture delivered last night at University College, Dublin, before members of the Chemical Society of Ireland.

Professor Hackett said that the scientific tradition in Europe was really responsible for the development of European civilisation. It had its origin among the Greeks, and received a stimulus in the Middle Ages which had given European civilisation a power over nature that no other civilisation had possessed.

Their own Irish culture had suffered eclipse at the Battle of Kinsale, and never had received that scientific stimulus. The future prosperity of Ireland was really dependent on the assimilation of the spirit of scientific method. It was appropriate that Mr. de Valera, in his Institute of Advanced Studies, had combined a school of Celtic studies for the encouragement of Irish culture with a school of theoretical physics, which would Ireland in touch with the best scientific thought.

A discussion followed.

Mr. A. G. Burnell, Chief Chemist of the Great Southern Railway, presided.

BELFAST STUDENTS' DAY RAG

APOLOGY IN COURT PROCEEDINGS

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Monday.

Six students of Queen's University appeared in the Belfast Summons Court to-day and apologised for an incident which took place in Thompson's Restaurant, Donegall place, on students' day. The students were summoned for disorderly behaviour.

Richard Thomas, manager of the restaurant, said that on students' day there was considerable shouting in Donegall place, and he saw a toilet roll being unrolled from the balustrade and a number of boys on the roof. He told them he would send for the police. The boys got away, and before the police arrived came back and demanded an apology for locking them on the roof.

Mr. J. H. Campbell, K.C., R.M., said the public tolerated university "Rags," and up to a point enjoyed them, but when they amounted to rowdyism the courts and public opinion would not tolerate them.

On defendants apologising the summonses were withdrawn.

IMPORTANT TO WOMEN!

Doctors say that the "make-up" of a woman's system is so highly intricate and so sensitive that the shock caused by taking strong laxative medicines may do serious harm. Even though you do not notice it at the time, you may be laying up serious trouble for yourself later. Those internal troubles which often afflict a woman in her middle years and later life are undoubtedly in many cases due to taking medicines which are too strong.

Women!—treat the delicate mechanism of your body gently by taking 'California Syrup of Figs.' It is a safe fruit laxative. It never purges, never interferes with the natural bodily functions and there are no depressing, "washed-out" after-effects. It relieves the bowels naturally, giving a complete internal cleansing in a few hours.

'California Syrup of Figs' has a tonic effect on the liver and kidneys that makes you "feel good." 'California Syrup of Figs' is ideally suited to a woman's needs. Get a bottle to-day and take a spoonful the first time your bowels need help. You'll feel better altogether! Doctors and nurses everywhere recommend 'California Syrup of Figs,' because it is so gentle in its action. Always take 'California Syrup of Figs' and give your bowels natural aid.

'California Syrup of Figs' obtainable everywhere at 1/3 and 2/6. The larger size is the cheaper in the long run. Be sure you get 'California Syrup of Figs' brand.

Mr. T. J. Kirwan, who appeared for Mrs. Oliver, said that there was no such thing as an appointed stopping place.

Mr. D. Ó Donnchadha, Chief State Solicitor's Office, agreed that all the Order set out was that the stop should be opposite a certain premises in a specified thoroughfare.

Mr Kirwan suggested, and the Justice agreed, that the public should be made aware of the existence of such regulations.

TRINITY LAW SITTINGS

HOSPITAL'S APPEAL IN NURSE'S CASE

FORTY-FOUR JURY ACTIONS FOR TRIAL

NEW trial motions, claims to right of way, matters relating to tenancies, the liability of occupiers for the maintenance of premises, and the bringing of proceedings within the time prescribed by the Workmen's Compensation Act for compensation for injuries—all these are included in the appeals that are to come before the Supreme Court during the Trinity Law Sittings, which will open to-morrow at the Four Courts.

Also decisions are to be announced regarding reasonable notice to be given to a teacher to terminate her employment; and whether a judgment mortgage entered against a registered owner of land is properly registered as a burden on the land, as against a transferee for valuable consideration, of the land, before the registration of the judgment.

NEW TRIAL MOTIONS

One of the new trial motions arises on an appeal by the Meath Hospital, Dublin, from the verdict of a jury and judgment for £1,500 in favour of Miss E. G. Hall, a nurse, who had claimed damages for injuries suffered when she fell on a staircase in the hospital. The grounds of the appeal are, among others, that there had been no evidence proper to be left to the jury that the injuries to Miss Hall were due to any negligence on the part of the hospital, and that the finding of the jury that the staircase was dangerous by reason of inadequate lighting was against the evidence.

Another new trial motion is on behalf of Miss Sheila O'Connor, Carlanstown, Ceanannus Mor (Kells), against whom £600 damages had been assessed in an action brought against her by Patrick Dalton, builder's foreman, Nephin road, Cabra, Dublin, for injuries suffered on March 18, 1939, at Cabra, when a bicycle which he was driving and Miss O'Connor's motor car were involved in a collision.

STONECUTTER'S APPEAL

A third new trial motion is in an action in which a jury found in favour of Lawrence Carpenter, Normanstown, Carlanstown, Ceanannus Mor, County Meath, against whom Patrick McConnell, stonecutter, Collins avenue, Drumcondra, Dublin, had claimed damages for injuries suffered when, he said, he was struck, while cycling, by a motor car driven by Mr. Carpenter at Navan road, Castleknock, on March 17 last. Mr. McConnell is appealing from the verdict of the jury, and judgment given for Mr. Carpenter.

There are nine applications for hearing by the Court of Criminal Appeal. All the applicants had been tried in Dublin, except one, who had been tried in Trim, and housebreaking and larceny are the general charges involved.

HIGH COURT ACTIONS

There is an average number of cases to be dealt with by the High Court, including claims for declarations, injunctions, specific performance of contracts, accounts, as well as partnership actions and actions concerning shares.

Twelve employés of Dublin Corporation are claiming the benefits of the Conditions of Employment Act, 1936, each stating that he is a "worker" in an "industrial undertaking," doing "industrial work" within the meaning of the Act.

An application is to be heard to make absolute a conditional order of certiorari directed to Galway Corporation to quash the rate for the year ending March 31st last, and a resolution of the Council purporting to strike the rate.

There are three Revenue petitions, the third being to re-assess estate duty on property passing on the death of Mrs. Rose Trench Stoughton, who had resided in Gloucestershire, in relation to property in Counties Cork and Kerry. A declaration is asked by the petitioners that the settlement created by the will of Mrs. Stoughton's husband was, in its inception, an English settlement, and that on the death of the widow the securities and investments were not liable to succession duty in Eire.

54 JURY ACTIONS

Fifty-four jury actions and six non-jury actions have been listed for trial. No fewer than 47 of the jury actions are running-down cases, six are probate actions, and there is one matrimonial suit. There is an action for damages for alleged libel brought by Lieutenant-General Michael Brennan, Chief Superintendent of Divisions in the Office of Public Works, and formerly Chief of Staff of the Defence Forces, against the Daily Telegraph, Ltd., Fleet street, London, the matter complained of being contained, it is stated, in an article in the Daily Telegraph of January 23rd last headed: "Eire Changes its Chief of Staff." "I.R.A. Raid Sequel."

The jury trials will begin on June 3rd.

There are about eighty Circuit appeals listed for hearing.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE NOTES

THE "ENGLISH LIT." INAUGURAL

RECENT RESOLUTIONS AT CONVOCATION

BY OUR CORRESPONDENT.

IN times like these it is not easy to concentrate for long on the affairs of the microcosm that is University College. When flaming posters and strident cries announce the latest "Stop Press" news, when wireless sets are at a premium, who wants to read of our petty sayings and doings? When country after country is erased from the map of Europe, and air, land and sea are ablaze with war, who cares what happens in Belfield or Earlsfort terrace? What are our little successes and failures when even we ourselves on the westernmost edge of the vast battlefield do not feel secure? Yet there is a justification. Bacon has put it much better than any other: "Have not the verses of Homer continued twenty-five hundred years, or more, without the loss of a syllable or letter, during which time infinite palaces, temples, castles, cities have been decayed and demolished?" The durable monuments of human learning are, and will be, co-eval with mankind. So we are an institution which seeks to keep those monuments constantly burnished and in good repair. Justificata est sapienta a filiis suis. This column records and comments on the doings of our seekers after wisdom; therein lies its justification for writer, and, it is hoped, readers.

DR. P. MACCARVILL.

CONVOCATION

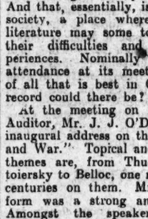

Some time ago the agenda for the latest meeting of Convocation was sent to members. While the business outlined was not as heavy as usual its importance was considerable and deserving of note. Of the two motions on the list the first was proposed by Dr. MacCarvill, the other by Mr. P. J. Hogan, B.Comm. The resolution standing in the name of Dr. MacCarvill was: "That Convocation congratulates Dr. Coffey, late President of University College, Dublin, on the high Papal honour recently conferred on him, and that Convocation wishes Dr. Coffey many years of happiness in his retirement." Thus yet another tribute is added to the many which signalised the esteem in which Dr. Coffey was held by all. The second motion dealt with a matter which has been engaging the attention of many people in College of late. That is, the undoubted difficulty of finding employment for our graduates. In this case, the particular field under discussion was that consisting of governmental and other public appointments for which a degree in Commerce is thought to be an essential qualification. Investigation of this subject and allied matters has been proceeding for some time on the part of those qualified to carry it out.

Some months ago—towards the end of last term, to be exact—College was entertained by the holding of a large number of inaugural meetings. At the time there was much comment as to the advisability of changing the name of such meetings, and mention was made of it in this column. However, by the end of the Hilary Term the whole affair had blown over, and inaugurals had, it was thought, been forgotten until next winter. Those who held this belief, and they included your correspondent, were grievously and, in many ways, unforgiveably mistaken. There was one other which had not then taken place, though it had slipped the notice of almost all. It was only on Friday last that the English Literature Society held their annual inaugural meeting. For a body whose work is of the highest value, both culturally and socially, to omit to hold such a meeting would be unthinkable. In fact, the "English Lit.," as it is referred to by its familiars, is one of the most estimable societies in College. It seldom attains the headlines, but does its good work unobtrusively and without seeking undue publicity. There is an air of camaraderie at its meetings—and the subsequent teas—which is not normally found elsewhere. In its procedure there is a refreshing lack of that formalism which goes far towards spoiling the meetings of many other student societies. And that, essentially, is what it is—a student society, a place where students of English literature may come together to thresh out their difficulties and exchange their experiences. Nominally a faculty society, the attendance at its meetings is representative of all that is best in College. What better record could there be?

At the meeting on Friday night last the Auditor, Mr. J. J. O'Donoghue, delivered his inaugural address on the subject, "Literature and War." Topical and eternal as these two themes are, from Thueydides through Dostoiersky to Belloc, one may range through the centuries on them. Mr. O'Donoghue's platform was a strong and representative one. Amongst the speakers were Mr. Aodh de Blacam, the well-known author and literary critic, and Mr. Seán O Faoleán, the novelist and biographer. At least the modern Irish school which springs from war and peace did not lack representation. To balance the scales, Colonel J. J. O'Connell, classics graduate, military historian and strategical expert, also spoke. The President of the Society, Professor J. Hogan, M.A., B.Litt. (Oxon.), was another speaker, while the chair was taken by Dr. A. W. Conway, the new President of University College. This was Dr. Conway's first occasion to preside at a student function.

MEDICAL SOCIETY

On Monday next the Medical Society, now coming to the close of a busy session, will meet to hear a student paper. This will be read by Mr. Eoin O'Malley. He has chosen for his title, "Pathological Physiology of Hypertension: Surgical and Medical aspects." The chair will be taken by Professor T. W. T. Dillon, and, despite the imminence of examinations, a large attendance is expected. Meanwhile, other societies are winding up their year's work with elections and general meetings. The "L. and H." would appear to be the scene of a minor constitutional crisis, but up to the time of writing there has been no sensational development. Cumann Litcardha na Gaedhilge held their annual general meeting on Friday afternoon last. Of interest to many people in College are the results of the recent elections of the Solicitors' Apprentices' Debating Society. There are two graduates on the new committee—Miss Ada Hyland, B.A., and Mr. Michael J. Egan, B.A. All the other officers are either undergraduates or have been attending lectures in our Law School. The Auditor for the ensuing session is Mr. D. M. Dowling, who took out his lectures here some time ago and passed his examinations with distinction. Under the active direction of Mr. Jack Rourke, the Athletic Club has been very busy of late. The annual College sports will take place at Belfield on Saturday next. Entries close to-morrow for would-be competitors. Sport should be good and competition promises to be keen in almost every event. On Friday evening last a team picked from members of the club opposed a Civil Service Athletic Club team in a Novices' League contest at Belfield. We put up a good showing, which augurs well for future success in the League.

THE WAR FRONTS REVIEWED

GERMANY'S ARMOURED DIVISIONS

EXPLOITATION OF THE FIERCE DRIVE

BY OUR MILITARY CORRESPONDENT.

SINCE the elimination of Holland as a belligerent, the general military situation has been too fluid to permit of systematic analysis. Now, however, events have developed to a point at which a more or less comprehensive review again becomes possible. There are a number of factors that can be regarded as fixed and definite, and these will condition the subsequent evolution of events.

One such factor seems to be that Germany, after the Polish campaign, concentrated on her special shock divisions. Instead of doubling her large units indiscriminately she doubled her armoured divisions—i.e., numerically and also with regard to their inherent fighting power. At the same time she intensified their training, tactically and technically, and drafted into them the best of the new officers being formed. She thus organised a strong spear-head capable of delivering a very formidable thrust. It was never forgotten in Germany that armoured fighting vehicle superiority was an important element in the Allied victory in 1918. This superiority she was now determined to enlist on her own side. Her numerical superiority in the air guaranteed formidable support for the tank divisions, as far as all daytime operations were concerned.

THE ARMOURED ATTACK

The axis of the main effort was well chosen. There was not far to go—across the narrow southern tip of Belgium. There would be encountered a French sector less formidably fortified than that further east, and a junction point between French and Belgian armies—always a weak link in Allied armies would be struck. The nature of the terrain, though unfavourable in some respects, offered the advantage of ample concealment. The only obstacle lying squarely across the line of advance was the Meuse River. The courses of any other rivers in the region—Sambre, Somme, Oise, Aisne—run parallel to the axis of movement, not across it. Consequently, once the Meuse was crossed the further progress was easy enough—at least, in the earlier stages.

The thrust by the armoured divisions was flanked by two other movements. To the northward there was a to-and-fro battle across Belgium, in which French and British armies co-operated with the Belgians. The continued resistance of the Liège and Namur forts contributed very materially to the success of the Allied retirement. This appears to have been carried out in good order—being, indeed, mainly caused by the threat of outflanking from the south.

POSSIBLE COUNTER-STROKE

On the other flank of the armoured attack there seems to have been a holding attack against the left shoulder of the Maginot Line proper—more or less in the region of Montmedy. This got nowhere, but it may have pinned down forces that would have been useful in plugging the gap in the earlier stages of the battle. We know very little about possible casualties on either side—except that they must have been heavy. The German claim of 110,000 prisoners sounds big, but it must include a considerable percentage of wounded. As a proportion of an army of millions it is not really so remarkable.

Regarding the matter of a counter-stroke, it is easy to make mistakes about the conditions which govern anything of the kind. A counter-stroke to be effective must be organised. mere haphazard hitting back leads to nothing except dissipation of effort. Nothing useful can be done without collecting a manœuvre-mass of several divisions, and that cannot be done right off the reel. It requires days to assemble the troops in a suitable zone for subsequent action. Then, too, the "dead point" of the original hostile thrust must be awaited.

MR. J. A. BOURKE.

GERMAN OBJECTIVE

Sooner or later the initial thrust must come to a standstill. For example, in September, 1914, the German impetus had already worn itself out before the counter-attack took place that led to the victory of the Marne. Up to now there has been no precedent for the physical slowing-up of a great mechanised force. Hitherto it has never been necessary to halt, re-organise and renew supplies for such an effort. All that we do know is that the quantities of petrol, oil, spares and fresh ammunition are altogether colossal. Already the Germans are in places said to be going on the defensive—particularly along the southern flank of their thrust, facing the principal French concentration. This is being done by ordinary divisions following up the armoured units "by forced marches," as we are told. Unless these can be brought forward in sufficient numbers the ground seized cannot be held, because the armoured vehicles themselves cannot do any holding.

As to the subsequent exploitation of their drive, it is too early to predict the precise objective of the Germans. Their operations resemble in some respects those of 1914 and in others those of 1918. They are not, so far, blindly following either headline. Possibly they may follow up whichever course seems, at short notice, the most opportune. At the moment the preference appears to be for a driving apart of the French on one side and the British and Belgians on the other—i.e., for the 1918 solution. First, however, a decision must arise following the development of the counter-stroke. Is it not the Weygand tradition to be precipitate; but this week is likely to see something definite.

ABBEY THEATRE

"THE PASSING DAY"

George Shiels's comedy, "The Passing Day," which is being revived at the Abbey Theatre this week, is a play which ought to be seen more often; it is one of the most successful productions in the company's repertoire.

Although retaining all the characteristics of the Abbey, and giving ample scope for fine acting, the production is sufficiently original to distinguish it from others of a similar nature.

There are excellent dialogue and unusual plot development. The central idea, however, is nothing new, dealing as it does with squabbles over money and a will.

Michael J. Dolan as John Fibbs, the miserly shopkeeper, is excellently cast, and he provides some of the most amusing moments in the play, while Denis O'Dea, as the nephew, gives a satisfactory performance in a role which makes little demands upon him.

Austin Meldon, although he has relatively little to do, is excellent as the commercial traveller, and F. J. McCormick and Eileen Crowe also contribute to the success of the production. Others in the cast are May Craig, Eric Gorman, Cecil Ford, W. O'Gorman, V. Wright, A. C. Fitzsimons, and Brid Ni Loingsigh.

The action of the play takes place inside the space of one day, and the six scenes are well managed. Michael J. Dolan is the producer and Cecil Ford is stage manager.

The Tide of War

This morning's news from the Western front is sparse by comparison with the tidings of the last few days. Little is known beyond the fact that the Allied forces are offering a magnificent resistance, both on land and in the air, and many a tale of gallantry, in the face of heavy odds, is reported. Nevertheless, the inexorable thrust continues. As yet it is unknown where the Allied armies will make their supreme stand, but the commentators on the spot agree that it must be made before very much longer. Everything will depend upon the strategy of the German High Command. Having thrust south-westwards through the gap between Maubeuge and Sédan, the advanced columns now are turning north-westwards, as if to pierce their way between Amiens and Arras, and thence to the Channel ports, while the hosts which overran Holland are being diverted southwards from Antwerp to make contact with their comrades. Evidently the intention is to trap the British troops—reckoned by German estimates at 300,000—who are stationed on the Franco-Belgian frontier; and these troops, with their Belgian allies, are falling back in an attempt to straighten out the line, while the main force of the attack in the south is being met by the main strength of the French army. The Germans claim to be advancing in the southern sector at a rate of 20 to 30 miles a day, to have captured the town of Laon, and to have reached the canal that joins the rivers Oise and Aisne. There is nothing as yet to show whether they propose to make a bid for Paris, or to concentrate their effort upon the north-westerly thrust: if General Weygand knew the answer to that question his task would be so much the simpler. The war has assumed the pattern of a race. How far can the Germans, daily advancing further from their sources of oil and other essential supplies, carry their colossal thrust before they are met by the fresh troops who are pouring into France from England at the rate of many thousands a day? The real battle has not yet been joined. It would be idle to deny that the Allied Command was taken by surprise when Herr Hitler's troops hurled themselves upon the Low Countries ten days ago, and that his Generals have made tremendous use of their advantage. Clearly, the Allied strategists were at fault when they failed to anticipate the quarter from which the shock would come; but it is not the first time in this century when faulty strategy has been redeemed by the fighting qualities of the French and British troops. The German thrust is so rapid that, by all the laws of human endurance, it is bound to slacken before many days longer, and by then it will be confronted with the massed might of the reinforced democratic armies. We may be reasonably certain that the first pitched battle of the new war will occur within a week, and the history of twenty-five years ago may begin to repeat itself. From the Allied point of view, the position is grave, but the real moment of trial and crisis has not yet arrived.

Farmers' Boys

The idea of a boys' land army, about which there was so much talk in England at the beginning of the war, is still little more than an idea. It received praise and support from the highest quarters, but even yet official interest has not been aroused. Several English public schools, however, have gone on with the plans that were laid six months ago, and volunteers are to be sought for holiday work in the harvest fields. In Rugby, to mention but one school, an appeal to boys of sixteen years and over has brought virtually a one hundred per cent. response, and about two hundred and fifty boys from that school alone will spend half of their summer holidays as harvesters in different parts of the country. In addition, their services will be available on three afternoons a week during term to assist farmers in the Rugby district. The school is to provide even a course of instruction in milking, and already in other schools extensive agricultural classes have been included in the curriculum. It is curious that so little official interest has been taken in the proposals. There was evidence a few months ago of an almost alarming shortage of agricultural labour, and, if there was a shortage then, what will be the position when the harvest comes? The women's land army was an invaluable help during the last war, and, doubtless, it will be just as useful now as it was then; yet, however willing the members may be, there is only a very limited kind of work that they can do. Harvesting may be a picturesque occupation, but it is a very hard one—backbreaking even to the hardy farmers who have spent a lifetime in the business. The labour shortage on English farms is no small problem, and whatever hope there was in the past of solving it by making agricultural labour a reserved occupation will be gone by now. No better solution seems to have been suggested than the boys' land army. These youngsters, in the prime of their vigour, but too young for military service, are the obvious answer. Moreover, between sixteen and eighteen years of age they are at a period in their lives when fresh air and the physical exercise that comes from robust outdoor work are almost essential to a healthy development. We in these islands have an inherent dislike for regimentation of any kind, but there is a lot to be said in favour of those schemes—adopted to a certain extent in France in recent years, and on an almost national scale in Italy and Germany—which compel youths at that age to spend a certain period every year in such work as farming, road-building, quarrying and similar outdoor works. The reward to the nation, as well as the physical reward to the youths themselves, is not inconsiderable. We have heard sad figures from time to time of the number of rejects, on physical grounds, among applicants for Army service in Britain. Most of these boys may have dark days before them, but the boys' land army, as well as performing a valuable service to the country by providing it with labour to reap its crops, will leave the boys the better prepared to meet whatever trials fate and the future may hold for them.

On the Tiles

Many persons will regret that the public-spirited appeal for more thatched roofs made in the Senate by "Cu Uladh" and another member fell upon unsympathetic ears. Most of the Senators appeared to share the speculative builder's predilection towards slates, though a few might have plumped for tiles if we had been given the benefit of their views. One gets the impression that if anybody in the Chamber had quoted the ancient tag about old things being best, two or three Senators would have arisen immediately to inquire derisively if that applied to old boots and old drains. There are people who might go so far as to accuse the Senate of a lack of "soul." It must have saddened their hearts to read that Mr. MacEllin denounced the stupidity of what he called "the Paul Henry outlook on the thatched house." For many years "Cu Uladh" has been a prominent figure in the language movement, but we cannot recollect that he was accused before this of possessing a Paul Henry outlook. Those who know him well would just as readily have accused him of having a Sean Keating outlook. Even that, however, would be better than seeing the world from the Dadaist or Surrealist point of view, which very easily might inflict upon us far worse things than thatched roofs. There is a good deal to be said in favour of thatched roofs; they keep the interior cool in summer and warm in winter, and provide an almost inexhaustible stock of pipe-cleaners. Properly cared for, they are undoubtedly picturesque, and that is more than can be said for some varieties of ornamental roof tiles which commence their career as a cheery red, and after a few months look like the interior of an ancient dust-bin. Senator Quirke's suggestion that bigger grants should be given to people who were planning to put thatched roofs on houses is easily understandable—they would need the money; for, as the Minister (Mr. Ruttledge) pointed out, few experts in thatching remain, and the cost of thatched roof repairs would be prohibitive. Of course, the Government could start a school for the revival of thatching, but so far nobody has suggested it, and we are sure that Government Departments still have thousands of other ideas for wasting money which they are aching to try out before adopting any new suggestions. It is very sad, doubtless; but we greatly fear that the modern world has as little use for thatched roofs as it has for rush lights.

All Paris papers will consist of a single sheet as from today. This is a temporary measure, to economise on transport and newsprint.

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

THE WESTWARD DRIVE

The violence of the German assault in Northern France was still unabated yesterday, says The Times to-day in a leading article. The enemy succeeded in widening the base of the great bulge that he has driven into the French line by breaking through still more of the prepared positions along the Belgian frontier, and by the capture of the blockhouse at the extreme left of the Maginot Line inself. To that extent he has rendered the bulge less vulnerable to counter-attack. . . . While the German advance continually leaves new tracts of open country exposed, and at the same time menaces the position of the Allied troops on either side of the formations that have to fall back, it is equally true that the position of the German advanced columns becomes itself ever more difficult to maintain, that their communications, on which their mechanised units with their voracious appetite for petrol are so dependent, become constantly longer and more precarious, and that the onrush that threatens to turn our flank only does so at the cost of presenting a vulnerable flank of its own to eventual counter-attack. It would be folly not to recognise that the position is dangerous, but it is dangerous for both sides.

The Times adds: The plain reason for the dangerous position into which the Allied Armies have been forced is not a failure of strategy or valour, but a deficiency of material. The German onrush could have been stayed, and their future defeat can be secured only by overcoming their immense superiority in the air. In quality of men and machines they have been manifestly outclassed, but by sheer weight of numbers they have prevailed. The balance can be, and must be, redressed by unresting labour at home, whether directly in the manufacture of aircraft and other munitions, or indirectly, by earning the wherewithal to buy them abroad.

THIS farce, by J. B. Priestley, comes to us with a big record of success behind it. It is, clearly, a play deliberately manufactured for laughter. It should, in consequence—for Mr. Priestley is a manufacturer whose brand is good—have the glow of popularity, never uncertain for a moment, over all its face. Yet there are moments when it seems to be not so happy with itself, moments when the ripple of pure farce is stayed, and things have to be done with it to drive it on. Still, although it may waver thus, and appear to stand still, and almost want to lie down at times, it manages, somehow, to keep its pleasant course to the end. It is excellent entertainment, and that, frankly, is all that it set out to be.

Mr. Priestley has written more ambitious Yorkshire plays, plays with themes in them, and it was, perhaps, inevitable that he should have wanted to try his hand, just for a rest, at a Yorkshire farce, although a wholly successful farce is probably the hardest of all kinds of plays to write. He assembles his people skilfully, but on Yorkshire ground he is favourably placed. There is a great freedom of speech in his Alderman Helliwell's house, and even the servants are equipped by nature, and possibly with some long memory of the English music hall in their make-up, to give that kind of "backanswer" which always tells so well upon the stage. The little maid who opens the door opens the play successfully almost with her first speech, and the woman who "comes in" from day to day springs immediately to her assistance, to make certain that everything is perfectly prepared for the oncoming development.

It is really a big day, or evening, at Alderman Helliwell's. There is a "do" to celebrate the joint silver wedding of three prosperous and much respected couples of Checklewyke. It is an occasion, too, when the three serious chapel-going men have decided that the time has arrived for a serious talk with the organist on certain mildly irregular conduct, which seems to call for their immediate censure. These three obviously self-indulgent men could not have chosen a moment more unfortunate for themselves, or one more fortunate for the play. The organist, faced pretty closely with dismissal, flings his bombshell among them. He is in a position to prove that the minister who married them was not at the time qualified to do so, and that, in consequence, for all those twenty-five years which they are now about to celebrate, they had not been married at all! The plot is immediately alive. The three wives come to know of the situation almost at once, and a kind of comic desolation descends upon a scene which had been prepared for congratulatory mention in the local newspaper. Arrangements had even been made, too, for a photograph, and it was the intention of the couples themselves, and also that of the photographer, to show them after the twenty-five years just as they had posed on the wedding morning.

COMPLICATIONS

Anything of that kind is now clearly impossible. The unfortunate dismissal of the woman who "came in" from day to day has put them all suddenly at the mercy of Checklewyke. The complications of the situation begin to develop rapidly, but not quite fast enough for the necessary speed of farce, and, of course, not too convincingly, for the play is merely meant for mirth, and not for any real tears. The author is rather in difficulties from the moment when he springs his big surprise. He has to manage characters who have not in them the stuff of continuous excitement. He does his best to vary them, but the three husbands and the three wives are all a little too much of the same class and type, and, for the purpose of the proposed silver wedding celebration, all necessarily more or less of the same age.

The tipsy Press photographer, who eventually provides the solution of their difficulty, is better and easier material, but even he does not quite succeed in becoming a large comic character, although in the hands of Mr. Norman Chidgey, who played him, he very nearly did. It is he who discovers, for the pacification of all of them, that there had been a civil marriage at the same time as the ceremony which had been proved bogus. There is a clergyman at hand, too, and one could assume, without seeing it happen, that these three really serious-minded men would eventually make the necessary addition of marriage to the solution that is given in the play. It was, however, the light moments of the uncertain freedom of these heavy people that made the farce and gave us all the laughter.

THE PLAYERS

A well-chosen company gave a wholly excellent performance. Prominent with the player of the photographer already mentioned were Mr. Lodge Percy as the Alderman, Mr. Frederick Victor as Councillor Albert Parkes, and Mr. John Gill as Herbert Soppitt. The three wives were played with nice variety of touch by Miss Peggy O'Dare, Miss Evelyn Kerry and Miss Margery Weston. The indoor and the outdoor servants were, respectively, quite brilliantly done by Miss Cymbeline Brooks and Miss Melina Dingwall, while Miss Esme Biddle made a most welcome re-appearance on the Dublin stage as Lottie Grady, a rather richly-coloured lady, who provided the biggest complication of the evening for the highly-respectable Alderman.

25 YEARS AGO

From the Irish Times, May 21, 1915.

Ireland and the Coalition.

A meeting of the Cabinet and conferences with the leaders of all parties were held in London yesterday to discuss the formation of the new Coalition Ministry. An agreement has been arrived at between the Government and the leaders of the Opposition which will assure the union of political forces in the colossal war task.

The position of the Nationalist Party in relation to the new Cabinet is much discussed. Mr. John Redmond is at present in Ireland, and has, it is understood, expressed his unwillingness to join the Coalition. It has, of course, long been a settled article of the Nationalist faith that no member of the Party should consent to serve in a British Government.

Strong pressure is, at all events, being put on the Nationalist leader to reconsider his decision, and Mr. Redmond's inclusion in the Cabinet, though thought at the present moment unlikely, is still not regarded as absolutely outside the range of possibilities.

English Racing Suspended.

In consequence of a communication from the President of the Board of Trade, the Stewards of the Jockey Club give notice that, with the exception of the Newmarket Meeting, all race fixtures granted for this year from and including Monday next, May 24th, are cancelled, and the meetings must be abandoned.

The edict of the Government against racing in Great Britain does not affect Ireland, and so far no official intimation has been expressed of a desire to interfere with the due carrying out of the various fixtures in this country.

THE KING HOLDS PRIVY COUNCIL

The King held a Privy Council at Buckingham Palace last night. It was attended by Mr. Chamberlain (Lord President of the Council), Mr. S. Bruce, Captain David Margesson (Chief Whip), and Mr. Malcolm Macdonald (Minister of Health). Routine business was transacted.

LONDON LETTER

WAR EFFORT TO BE SPEEDED UP

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

THE British war effort is expected to undergo marked speeding-up within the next few days. Many men who had been accepted for service and then sent home to await instructions now will be called up, more especially in connection with the Air Force. In other directions also men who have been awaiting their call will receive it now and will report for training. Everywhere there is a display of eager readiness. The political changes of the past few days have made a deep impression on the young men of the country. To-night it was announced that the response to Lord Beaverbrook's appeal for fitters for aeroplane factories had met with a great response, some Labour Exchanges being almost overwhelmed by applicants. This, however, is but the first step in the acceleration of aeroplane production.

Women Aliens

To-morrow several members of the House of Commons will urge the Government to take more drastic measures in regard to aliens. There is a growing feeling that all women aliens in Category B should be interned. The Alien Advisory Committee set up by the Home Office in the twelve defence areas of Britain to-day began the re-examination of the three thousand five hundred women placed in this category by the original tribunals. It is understood, however, that the authorities do not intend to press for any wholesale arrests of women. They prefer that every case should be dealt with on its merits. Many of the women concerned are said to be domestic servants.

British Plate for New York

Some months ago the King gave the Chapel of the Savoy to the Royal Victorian Order, and at the same time the Royal Family presented a service of altar plate to be used in the Chapel. The plate, designed by Mr. R. G. Gleadowe, was shown at a private view to-day at the Goldsmith's Hall. Dignified, yet simple in design, it is a beautiful example of British art. It goes now to New York, where it will be on view at the British pavilion of the World's Fair. To-day it was displayed in company with a collection of domestic and other plate, which also is going to New York. Also there is a travelling exhibit of British silver, which is to be shown in a number of American cities in connection with lantern lectures designed for the promotion of the export trade. A fine collection of presentation plate now in the British pavilion will remain there for the duration of the war. Owing to their historical associations many of the pieces are irreplaceable, among them being a ewer associated with Pepys, and valued at £10,000.

Whaling Men Arrive

Some three hundred Norwegian whaling men arrived in England, with their ships and cargo of whale oil, on Friday last. Other cargoes are safe in foreign ports. All the men are employed by British-owned factories; they left their ports eight months ago for the whaling grounds. A bureau has been set up in London for the men, who will be required to register with the Ministry of Labour and with the Norwegian military authorities, and it is expected that some of them will join the Navy or the mercantile marine, the Norwegian Government claiming them all under its conscription laws.

The Day of Prayer

In accordance with the King's request that Sunday next should be observed as a day of prayer, Churches of all denominations in England are arranging special services. The whole country probably will devote itself to intercession, ignoring the ordinary ways of life. To-day it was decided that Petticoat Lane Street Market should be closed on the day of prayer. This market never fails to open on Sundays from about 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., when it is packed with traders. It was last closed on the day of thanksgiving after the Great War.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

The Premier and the Prophet

Radio Eireann, announcing in Irish the appointment of Mr. Winston Churchill as Prime Minister, called him Priomh-aire, not Taoiseach, thus using a precise translation of the English term, while reserving Taoiseach for exclusive Irish application.

Years ago, when the notabilities of to-day were making their names, A. G. Gardiner's studies of "people of importance" returned to Mr. Churchill more than once. I have consulted his earliest essay on the rising statesman, published nearly thirty years ago. He wrote: "Mr. Churchill will write his name large in history. Let us beware lest he write it in blood."

Later, when the Gallipoli calamity had entailed Mr. Churchill's withdrawal from office, Mr. Gardiner wrote: "He has done as I foretold." Yet this was not the end, and a post-war collection of essays shows Churchill's stock rising in Gardiner's market. "In war you can be killed but once, but in politics many times," Churchill himself had said, and in 1926 he was at No. 11 Downing street. Hear Gardiner's renewed prophecy then written: "He emerges to-day from No. 11, and such is his buoyancy and tenacity of grip upon the lifeboat of office that I see no reason why he should not one day emerge from No. 10."

Flame-throwing Tanks

There seems to be precious little that Leonardo da Vinci did not think of 400 years ago.

He even contemplated the flame-throwing tank. In that famous letter (still preserved), which, as a young man, he wrote to Ludovico il Moro, Duke of Milan, Leonardo states that he can make what we now call flying machines and tanks—"covered chariots, immune from attack, which will be able to pass into the tanks of the enemy, despite the opposing artillery, and will be indestructible by even the largest body of men"—poison gas, flame-throwers, pontoon bridges.

He designed the submarine, which he refers to as "a boat to pass under the sea like a fish, and from its depth strike at the floating enemy." There is also proof that he invented the turbine and the parachute. Of the latter he wrote: "If a man have a canopy with the orifices filled up, twelve braccias broad and of the same height, he may throw himself from any height without personal danger.

"If the eagle can sustain himself in the rarest atmosphere, if great ships by sails can float across the waves, why cannot man, by means of powerful wings, make himself lord of the winds, and rise, the conqueror of space?" he wrote. And yet 400 years had to elapse before we could produce an aeroplane!

But if Leonardo had lived in our day what strange and terrible war weapons would he have produced? I tremble to think of it if he were on the other side.

Undertones of War

Although this Southern portion of our loved land is not at war, the war seems to overshadow every one of its activities.

An artist of my acquaintance had been doing extremely well with an exhibition of his pictures—until the terrible Friday when the Germans invaded Holland and Belgium. Hardly anybody visited his show after that.

The Abbey, Gate and Gaiety Theatres, all three, did wretched business last week, and it cannot have been due either to the quality of their plays or to the fine weather.

On the other hand, certain unregenerate acquaintances assure me that the public-houses were never so full.

"Temple Lane"

In such circumstances—when half the world is at war, and the shadow hangs heavy over the other half—it seems unwise to plan for anything more than ten days ahead.

I am told that one minor result of the heavy atmosphere of these days is the postponement of the annual banquet of the Women Writers' Club, at which my friend, Temple Lane, was to have been the guest of honour.

I hope that the postponement will not be for long, because if any woman writer in Ireland deserves a tribute, it is the selfsame Temple Lane. Her book of poems, "Fisherman's Wake," which was published by the Talbot Press some months ago, has given me unbounded pleasure: indeed, if so many things had not been happening to distract the mind, I would have said a lot about it in this column before now.

She is not less charming as a person than as a poet.

"Whiskey" or "Whisky"

Mr. Desmond J. Williams, of Tullamore, raises an old and thorny question.

"Perhaps some of your readers," he writes, "can explain the difference between the spellings of the word 'whiskey' in Ireland and Scotland.

"The spelling with an 'e' is the generally accepted version here, whereas it is spelt 'whisky' in Scotland. My attention has been drawn to this difference lately by a friend of mine, who points out that two well-known Irish brands use the Scotch spelling, without an 'e.'

"Is the original Gaelic 'uisge beatha' Irish or Scotch?"

Both Ways!

Life becomes harder and harder. On Saturday I printed a little story about an office boy, which had been given to me as gospel by the "big shot" of the company in question. Two of my friends commented on it to me.

One said: "That was a terrible old chestnut you had in the 'Diary' to-day. I read it at least ten years ago in ——" and he named a well-known English periodical.

Disappointed, I turned to my other friend. "No," was his comment, "I never heard it before. But I didn't think it very funny."

WESTWARD PUSH SLOWED DOWN

GERMANS CLAIM TO HAVE TAKEN LAON

French Repel Attacks at Montmedy

DRIVE TOWARDS THE SEA

Attempt to Divide Allied Forces

WHILE the westward push by the massed German mechanised forces has been slowed down and less headway was made yesterday than for some days, the claim is made that Laon has fallen, and that German troops are advancing south-west from that town and have reached the Oise-Aisne Canal.

Violent onslaughts were made throughout the day, and severe fighting took place between Allied and German armoured units north and west of St. Quentin, where small gains were made by German troops. It is claimed that Allied shock troops, which have been brought up to threatened points, are stemming the rush.

The French state that German attacks in the region of Montmedy have been repulsed.

A feature of the fighting is the sustained aerial bombing attacks by both sides on columns hastening to the front. Heavy losses of men and material are stated to have been caused.

TO SPLIT BRITISH AND FRENCH ARMIES

A Berlin message states that the German Army was swinging westward to the English Channel at a rate of twenty to thirty miles a day, and hoped to isolate and destroy 300,000 British troops in the Belgo-French sector.

It is stated in Paris that five mechanised divisions are trying to drive a wedge between the French and British forces. The British and Belgian Armies are falling back to meet the threat, while the main French force is fighting to check the German advance. French infantry are being regrouped, under General Weygand, around St. Quentin salient to close "the pocket."

Ten miles south-east of Cambrai fighting raged around Caudry, but the French hold both Cambrai and La Fere.

HEAVY GERMAN LOSSES

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

PARIS, Monday.

Despite the increasing violence of their onslaught, the German westward push made comparatively little headway to-day.

Confident in its striking force, the German Army is pushing forward, but it is held up on the flanks, while in the centre every inch of ground is being disputed.

The position at Peronne is obscure. It is not known whether the town has been fully occupied by German troops or whether only a slight advance guard has reached it.

Heavy pressure is also being brought against the fortified region of Montmedy. This salient, which controls the passage of the Meuse east of Sedan, hampers the German movements considerably.

A new attack against the Maginot Line at this point this morning was repulsed, as were those launched in the same regions yesterday, with very heavy losses to the Germans. Along the rest of the Maginot Line to the Swiss frontier there is nothing to report.

TO DRIVE A WEDGE

FIVE GERMAN MECHANISED DIVISIONS

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

PARIS, Monday.

Five German mechanised divisions, with 60,000 men behind their armour-plating, battered their way westwards across the plains of North France to-night.

Their objective was to drive a wedge between England and France and cut the French armies from the Allied forces in Belgium.

The British and Belgian Armies fell back to meet the threat, while the main French force fought to check the German advance.

Most of the German armoured columns and aerial power are concentrated on a 30-mile sector between Le Cateau and La Fere, where they have reached the west bank of the canal running from the Oise to the Sambre.

Their forward charge caused the French to evacuate St. Quentin, but eleven days of constant fighting, the churning up of the roads by the heavy lumbering machines, and the stretching out of their lines of communication appeared to be slowing down the German advance.

Military dispatches did not indicate whether the Germans had abandoned for the present their effort to reach Paris.

MOTORISED TROOPS

Thousands of units of British and French motorised troops rumbled into the bridge to meet the Germans—striking out and then withdrawing to escape the heavier Nazi masses.

Swarms of French infantry are being regrouped under General Weygand around the gigantic St. Quentin salient and about the German flanks to "close the pocket."

Fighting also raged to-day around Caudry, ten miles south-east of Cambrai, but the French hold Cambrai and La Fere. It was stated by a military authority that a French counter-attack is being made from La Fere.

HOPE TO ISOLATE 300,000 BRITISH

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

BERLIN, Monday.

The German Army was swinging westwards to-night towards the English Channel in an attempt to isolate and destroy a Nazi estimate of 300,000 British troops in the Belgo-French sector.

After making a two-day drive south-wards into France the German High Command—without definitely stating its opposition—said that the army had struck westwards from St. Quentin at a rate of 20-30 miles a day.

GERMANS CLAIM LAON

HEAVY TANK FIGHTING

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

BERLIN, Monday.

The High Command of the German Army announces: "German troops took Laon to-day. The Swastika flag is flying on the citadel. Advancing south-west from Laon, the Oise-Aisne Canal was reached."

"The pursuit of the enemy is continuing, and the advance is going on," it is claimed by the official German news agency in its commentary.

"The effort made by strong French forces to penetrate to the south and south-east was repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy.

"The loss of more than 50 tanks is evidence both of the strong drive of the French and of the accuracy of the German forces.

"The armoured enemy attack which was carried out by the French to the north of Laon was evidently aimed at supporting the effort to break through the Valenciennes-Maubeuge line.

"This attempt was completely shattered by diving bombers and destructive units.

"To the north of Rheims on the Aisne more strong German forces advanced."

FRENCH COMMUNIQUE

ATTACKS REPULSED

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

PARIS, Monday.

To-night's French communiqué said:—

"The German push is still strong in the region north and west of St. Quentin.

"New enemy attacks have been repulsed in the region of Montmedy.

"Nothing of importance in the rest of the front.

"There was great activity of our aviation in the course of the day.

"Numerous reconnaissances prepared the engagement of bombing formations on armoured enemy units.

"Heavy bombing was carried out on the columns, retarding their progress and inflicting severe losses on them."

DUTCH SPEAKER'S PLEA FOR LENIENCY

"PEACE RESTORED TO ALL APPEARANCES"

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

M. Van Schaik, President of the Dutch Chamber, in a broadcast to the Dutch nation from the German-controlled Hilversum radio station last night, expressed the hope that the German authorities would take only such measures as would be in keeping with the honour of the Dutch nation and in the interests of the nation.

"Peace has now been restored to all appearances in the occupied territory," he said. Inwardly the nation had not yet recovered its calm, and the purpose of the broadcast was to restore to the nation the best Dutch traditions—energy, calm and determination. He appealed to all for that obedience to the authorities requested by the Commander-in-Chief, General Winkelman.

"In concord and unity we shall try to build up a new future. History has taught us that the sun has always risen again for the Dutch people."

They would have liked to keep Queen Wilhelmina in their midst, and history would tell if the right course had been followed for the maintenance of the sovereignty of the country.

"AT THE FRONT AFTER 8 WEEKS' TRAINING"

"In our infantry column at the Western front soldiers are marching who have undergone a training of only eight weeks," a spokesman of the German High Command stated in a broadcast yesterday.

"But they set their teeth and managed to do their duty nevertheless," he added.

"MUENSTER CHOSEN FOR PEACE CONFERENCE"

BERLIN REPORT

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

BERLIN, Monday.

It was reported to-day that Hitler has already chosen Muenster, in Westphalia, as the scene of the next peace conference. The Fuehrer was said to be determined to make the British and French representatives sign on the dotted line in Muenster's picturesque ancient hall, in which the 1648 Peace Treaty was signed, ending the thirty years' war, to the detriment of Germany.

Thus he intends to wipe out Versailles actually and the Westphalian Treaty symbolically.

LONDON-PARIS 'PHONE DELAY

Telephonic communication between London and Paris was interrupted last night, and after three hours it was stated that there was still indefinite delay on all calls.

U.S. £455,000,000 ARMY BILL

APPROVED BY SENATE COMMITTEE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Monday.

The $1,820,941,004 (£455,235,250) Army Bill was quickly approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee to-day. The amount of the bill is unprecedented in peacetime. The vote was taken after only two hours.

Of the total, $1,407,711,368 (about £376,927,840) would be available immediately the President signed the bill. The Senate is expected to begin its debate on the bill to-morrow. There is a possibility that it will go to the House of Representatives by the middle of next week.

50,000 WARPLANES

Associated Press, in a message from Washington last night, stated:—The United States Government's military chiefs to-day urged the aviation industry to achieve President Roosevelt's goal of 50,000 warplanes "as quickly, as efficiently and as cheaply as possible."

These essentials were stressed at a conference of military and Government leaders with industrial and business chiefs.

NEW WARPLANE ENGINE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Monday.

Mr. Harry Woodward, President of the Aviation Manufacturing Corporation, to-day announced the development of a 1,200 h.p. aeroplane engine for installation inside the wings of warplanes. The engine, he said, will increase the speed of the machine by about 10 per cent. It is completely "submerged" in the wing and is liquid cooled. It delivers its own power to the propellors through an extension of the crankshaft.

The engine is only 37 inches high and 44 inches wide.

PROTECTION BY U.S.A.

CANADIAN OPPOSITION LEADER'S WARNING

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

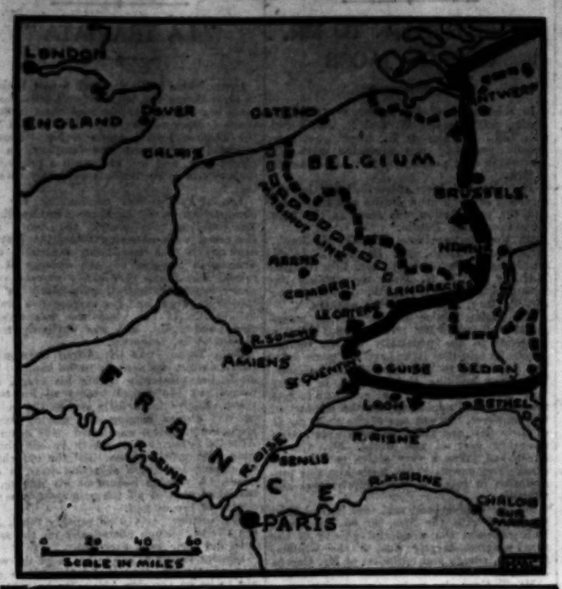

OTTAWA, Monday.

Mr. R. B. Hanson, the new Opposition (Conservative) leader, has warned Canada against depending on the United States for defence. Speaking in the debate on the Speech from the Throne in Parliament to-day, he said that he appreciated the friendly attitude of the United States; but, he added, "whenever we have to shelter ourselves under the Stars and Stripes on that day the Union Jack will be hauled down, never to go up."

Earlier in his speech Mr. Hanson made a bitter protest against weakness in war preparation in years past, and said: "Canada could not defend herself against Siam." Canada's first line of defence was the British Army and Navy, he said. "If ever there was a just war in the history of mankind, Canada is now in a righteous one."

BREWING TO GO ON

Lord Woolton, British Minister of Food, told a Press conference in London yesterday that he had no intention of stopping brewing. He said that a great deal of his correspondence had been from teetotallers, who urged that he should do this instead of reducing sugar.

PARACHUTISTS PRAISED

"WERE CREATION OF HITLER"

MARSHAL GOERING'S SPEECH IN BERLIN

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

BERLIN, Monday.

FIELD-MARSHAL GOERING, on a short visit to Berlin, told German Pressmen to-day that parachute troops were the creation of Hitler. He replied "frankly" to actual questions that have been raised from all circles of the nation, says the official German News Agency.

"Parachute troops were one of the plans of the Fuehrer," he said. "These troops wear the uniform of the German Air Force like every other soldier of that Force. It is an infamy to allege that parachute troops descended in disguises. . . . If parachute troops are taken prisoner they have to be treated like all other prisoners of war, in accordance with international law. He who violates international law must reckon with the severest reprisals.

"AN EPIC SONG"

"Units of the parachute troops succeeded in keeping open the back door of the fortress of Holland in the rear of the enemy's positions. Their deeds make an epic song. Day and night they suffered the heaviest artillery fire, but in spite of this these ferocious men carried out the tasks which the Fuehrer had laid on them."

After asserting that the German Air Force had "won and would keep" superiority in the air, Field-Marshal Goering said that the German advances of the past ten days had been "made possible by the leadership of the Fuehrer."

"In his person," he declared, "statesmanship and military genius are united. He it was who created our brilliant plan of campaign. It is his work—just as the Polish and Norwegian campaigns were his work.

TWO CONDITIONS

"The Fuehrer possesses, as hardly anyone before him has done, the two absolutely necessary conditions for great generalship. First of all, he commands an all-embracing knowledge in the military and technical field. Furthermore, it is unique for a military leader to have had the chance to experience the greatest of all wars as a simple private.

"Because of the fact that the Fuehrer lived through the Great War as the bravest soldier in the front line, he knows better than anybody else the psychology of the private soldier.

"He knows what a soldier can do; what can be asked of him, and what cannot. Here is a man who in the Polish campaign fought what I consider are the greatest battles of annihilation in the whole history of warfare.

"Through his incredible genius was created the plan which within a few days has brought our armies near the coast, after battering down everywhere the enemy's positions. These successes have been accomplished with very slight losses indeed.

"We can look forward in full confidence to final victory."

GERMAN MOVES NEAR NARVIK

PARACHUTISTS DROPPED

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

STOCKHOLM, Monday.

The German troops near the coast in the Narvik sector are apparently trying to move inland to establish contact with the force at Bjornefjell, on the Swedish frontier, but the Norwegians hold the mountains in between.

The Germans are trying to get reinforcements by parachute. The ice on the lakes is now so thin that some parachutist have broken through it and been drowned

The Germans in the Narvik sector have also been reinforced by a unit of Alpine troops, who managed to cross the mountains from the Trondheim sector on snowshoes.

The Norwegians are now using some eighty new troop lorries, captured when the German transport ship Alster was seized off Bodo and brought into Tromso. This ship also carried about 1,000 sacks of flour, coffee and sugar, cigarettes, and a large supply of toys, evidently intended for distribution among children after the occupation as a sign of friendly intentions.

The Germans are trying to create confusion by broadcasting on the Tromso wave-length, but listeners are well acquainted with the regular announcers' voices.

Details now available of the German capture of Mo show that the main German force carried out a daring encircling movement over the mountains, and attacked unexpectedly with heavy infantry weapons and hand-grenades. The defenders had been convinced that no troops could pass over the mountains whence their own patrols had been withdrawn. The Germans at Mo, now estimated at 4,000, have occupied both sides of Rana Fjord.—(Copyright, per P.A.)

BUTTER FROM EIRE

BRITISH FOOD MINISTER'S STATEMENT

So far as butter from Eire was concerned, it was entirely a question of price, said Lord Woolton, British Minister of Food, at a Press conference in London yesterday.

"I told the Irish representatives that we should be glad to take butter on a commercial basis.

"If the Eire farmer can sell in competition with the New Zealand farmer, then we are prepared to buy."

FEWER PAGES

In compliance with a request from the Department of Supplies, and in view of the existing shortage of newsprint, the "Irish Times" to-day contains only eight pages. It will be necessary to limit our size to eight pages on at least two days every week; but we shall make every effort to continue to supply our readers with the maximum amount of trustworthy news, and to retain as many of our features as possible.

G.S.R. TRANSPORT STRIKE OFF

LAST NIGHT'S DECISION

ACTION TO DEPEND ON CONFERENCE

FOLLOWING communications between the Department of Industry and Commerce and the National Union of Railwaymen, the strike of G.S.R. road transport employés, arranged for midnight last night, did not take place.

Meetings of the workers, held at 3 p.m. and 10 p.m. yesterday, decided, on the recommendation of Mr Peter Timmins, secretary of the Amiens street No. 2 Branch of the N.U.R., to request the Minister for Industry and Commerce to call a joint conference of G.S.R. and N.U.R. representatives before Thursday next, strike action to be deferred pending the result of this conference.

WAGES DEMAND

The dispute arose on a demand for an all-round increase in wages of 10s. per week to meet the increased cost of living.

Consideration of the demand had been previously deferred pending the Railway Wages Board's decision on a similar demand for the "conciliation grades" of railwaymen.

It was stated last week that it was expected that meetings between the company and the union would be held shortly to consider the demand, but the workers concerned decided that unless a satisfactory reply was received from the company before 3 p.m. yesterday strike action would be taken.

As such action had not been sanctioned by the executive of the N.U.R. the stoppage, if it had taken place, would have been unofficial.

Almost 3,000 workers are involved in the dispute.

CONFERENCE WANTED

Mr. P. Timmins stated that yesterday's meetings now stand adjourned until Thursday.

"The responsibility for a stoppage, if it takes place, will now lie with the Minister for Industry and Commerce," said Mr. Timmins. "We have instructed Mr. Watters, our chief organiser in Ireland, to apply to the Minister for an immediate conference."

BRITISH PILOT RIDES ON GERMAN TANK

An R.A.F. pilot who jumped out after his machine had been hit by German fire landed near an advancing column of tanks. As one of them passed he jumped on, and only then realised it was German. Unrecognised in his flying kit, he stayed on the tank until it reached a point where he was able to jump off and make across country to the Allied lines, and the next day he was back again with his squadron. This story was told in a broadcast last night by Captain H. H. Balfour, British Under-Secretary for Air, as typifying the bravery and initiative of the Royal Air Force.

BRITISH DESTROYER BOMBED

FOUR CASUALTIES ON BOARD

The British Admiralty stated yesterday afternoon:—

"The Secretary of the Admiralty regrets to announce that one of our destroyers, H.M.S. Whitley (Lieut.-Commander G. N. Rolfe, R.N.), was damaged by bombs and was subsequently beached. There were four casualties, and next-of-kin have been informed."

H.M.S. Whitley, a vessel of just over a thousand tons, was built during the last war, and, according to Jane's "Fighting Ships," was re-armed as an escort vessel two years ago. As such, she carried four 4-inch high angle guns and two multi-machine guns.

BELFAST AND REFUGEES

Arrangements have been completed in Belfast for the reception of six thousand Dutch and Belgian refugees. Particular attention has been paid to the drafting of medical arrangements, as all the sick and their relatives are to be disembarked at Belfast. These arrangements are in charge of Dr. F. J. Deane. Urgent cases are to be taken to hospitals, and adequate plans have been made for the treatment of others at their billets.

New Decree Laws Adopted

MILITARY COURT'S POWERS

THE Council of Ministers met at the Elysee at 7 o'clock to-night. Before the meeting M. Reynaud conferred for about an hour with Marshal Petain, the Vice-Premier, and with General Weygand, Commander-in-Chief, says a Press Association War Special from Paris last night.

Earlier in the day M. Reynaud received Mr. William Bullitt, the United States Ambassador in Paris, and Sir Ronald Campbell, the British Ambassador.

MILITARY TRIBUNALS

The Council of Ministers heard an explanation of the military position from M. Reynaud, to which Marshal Petain added his comments. M. Daladier, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, made a statement on the international situation.

The Council adopted various decree laws, which will enable the Military Tribunals to deal more rapidly with certain crimes which are regarded as specially grave in the existing circumstances.

At the request of the Military Command, it was provided that the Military Tribunals of the Armies could sit as courtsmartial "to try all persons, military or civil, arrested in the act of committing military crimes or crimes against the safety of the State. There will be no appeal from the sentences, which will be carried out forthwith.

Another decree authorised sugar rationing.

GENERAL WEYGAND SEES MANDEL

General Weygand, the new French Commander-in-Chief, was received this afternoon by M. Mandel, the Minister of the Interior.

SENATE MEETS TO-DAY

The Allies' common resolution to win the war is expected to be the main theme running through the sitting of the French Senate, which assembles this afternoon.

M. Reynaud will make a statement on the land operations now in progress, and may refer to the military, Ministerial and administrative reshuffle announced during the week-end, says the Intransigeant.

Both Houses of Parliament have unanimously approved M. Reynaud's changes, it adds.

R.A.F.'s RELENTLESS PRESSURE

30 German 'Planes Brought Down'

14 BRITISH MISSING

THIRTY German 'planes were destroyed and many others heavily damaged on Sunday, according to reports received up to last night. This news was contained in a British Air Ministry communiqué, which told of bomber "pressure" on German communications, tanks and troops during the night by "a large number" of machines—only two of which did not return.

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

The Air Ministry announcement was:—

"Bomber aircraft of the Royal Air Force maintained their pressure on German lines of communication on Sunday night. Oil refineries in North-West Germany were also successfully attacked. South of Brussels operations were carried out against railway stations and bridges. The railway bridge at Roux sustained a direct hit. Damage was done to rolling stock and the permanent way.

"Troop and tank concentrations were attacked in the Aisne sector. Near Sedan a lorry park was set on fire.

"From all these operations, involving a large number of Royal Air Force bombers, only two have failed to return, in spite of intense enemy anti-aircraft fire.

DAMAGE IN NORWAY

The aerodrome at Vaernes, north of Trondhjem, was also successfully attacked last night. A large number of enemy aircraft standing out on the aerodrome were repeatedly bombed and machine-gunned by relays of Hudson aircraft. Much damage is believed to have been done. Seven fires were started.

"From our fighter aircraft day by day come stories of matchless courage. All day long they are called upon to engage superior forces of the enemy, to drive off formations of bombers which continually harass the Allied troops, and to attack their fighter escorts. From almost every engagement they return, having inflicted heavy losses on the enemy, and immediately take off again to renew the struggle.

PLUCKY YOUNG PILOT

"Thus, in patrols over France and Belgium yesterday, one squadron of Hurricanes sighted over a hundred enemy aircraft. In a series of combats they disposed of eleven, eight of which were enemy fighters. One young pilot, who took on four H.E. 111's one after the other, destroyed three of them.

"Reports so far received confirm that thirty enemy aircraft were destroyed by the Royal Air Force yesterday and many others heavily damaged.

"Victories against such odds are not won without loss. Fourteen of our fighters are missing."

50 DOWN IN TWO DAYS

WAVES OF GERMAN 'PLANES IN THE AIR

Fighter patrols of one R.A.F. group, fighting their way through waves of German bombers, brought down over 50 Heinkels, Dorniers, Junkers and Messerschmitts during Saturday and Sunday, with less than half that number of casualties to themselves.

They watched 34 of the Germans crash and knew that their bullets had put the other 16 out of action.

"About 50 enemy aircraft in three waves, flying west to south, were sighted," said one flying officer. "I turned towards them and fired at one after another, as I was able to get them into my sights."

One of his tanks was hit and his cockpit filled with petrol, but he managed to land safely.

Meanwhile he and his companions had brought down five of the bombers, in spite of their protecting Messerschmitts.

Another pilot officer brought down three Messerschmitts 110's in quick succession. "I attacked one Messerschmitt head on," he said. "The whole of the front of the enemy aircraft appeared to collapse, and it dived out of control. I attacked the second, and bits fell out of the port engine, and it spun down out of control. I attacked the third from astern. Again bits fell out of the port engine, and large clouds of black smoke were emitted."

So many aircraft filled the sky in some of these actions that pilots never knew from which direction the next attack might come. One Hurricane pilot, as he fought, warned another by radio telephone that a Messerschmitt 110 was coming up behind him. The second pilot dodged just in time.—(P.A. War Special.)

TRINITY COLLEGE ASSOCIATION

MEMBERSHIP WELL OVER 5,000

The membership of the Trinity College (Dublin) Association has reached the figure of 5,331, according to the secretary's report, which was adopted at the annual meeting of the Association, held in the Graduates' Memorial Building yesterday afternoon.

The report, which was read by the hon. secretary (Dr. Kenneth C. Bailey, F.,T.C.D.), stated that the Association had endeavoured to play their part in spite of the war by keeping track of the movements of Trinity men and women, recording their promotions and distinctions, and providing a rendezvous for them when they visited Dublin. In the twelve months ending in April 210 new members had been enrolled, while they had lost 67 by death.

The Standing Committee had discussed recently the question of having a dinner this year, but the view prevailed that such a festivity was likely to seem out of place to their many members who were involved in the widespread hostilities. No dinner would be held. The Association once more had been fortunate in receiving many presentations during the year. Mr. Ian Stuart, Headmaster of Portora Royal School, had presented two aquatints of old Dublin, Mrs. Isa MacDonald two prints of Trinity College, and Mr. Calverly Riley a framed view of College Green.

Referring to the losses of members through death during the year, Dr. Bailey spoke of the work of the late Mrs. Luce, who, he said, had been always a good friend of Trinity College.

The report was adopted.

The report of the hon. treasurer (Captain W. C. Ramsden) stated that the Association had a credit balance of £157.

Dr. E. H. Alton, Registrar of Dublin University, who presided, agreed to convey to the Rev Chancellor Luce, D.D., the Association's sympathy on the deaths of his wife and daughter.

A vote of thanks was passed to the hon. auditor, Mr. C. B Kennedy.

The burst in the trunk water main at Royal avenue, Belfast, was repaired during Saturday night and Sunday. When the workmen uncovered the pipe they discovered a break 14ins. by 5ins., caused, no doubt, by years of wear. A new section was fitted, and the work was completed on Sunday evening

A fine of £5, with 12s. 6d. extra costs, was imposed in the Belfast Summons Court yesterday on Harold T. Neill, Mill road, Kilkeel, and The Mount, Belfast, for having failed to stamp the unemployment insurance card of an employé from July 3, 1939, to January 20. Defendant was also ordered to pay the amount due in respect of stamps—£1 13s. 10d.

AN ASSOCIATION OF SEVENTY YEARS

PRESENTATION TO MR. GEORGE JACOB

In celebration of his seventy years' association with Messrs. W. and R. Jacob and Co., Ltd., Mr. George N. Jacob, past President, yesterday was presented with his portrait in oils, painted by Mr. Leo Whelan, R.H.A.

The gift had been subscribed for by the members of the firm in Dublin and Liverpool, and the presentation was made in the Staff Recreation Hall, Dublin.

On the platform were Mr. G. N. Jacob, Mr. Charles Jacob, Mr. Harold L. Jacob, Chairman of the company; Mr. Leo Whelan, R.H.A.; Mr. T. N. Hall, representing the Liverpool company; Mr. W. J. Mains and Mr. T. Gray, representing the workers.

Mr. Mains, senior member of the managerial staff, made the presentation. After a reference to the popularity of Mr. George Jacob, he said that it was seventy years since Mr. Jacob first took his place in the business. The large building they worked in to-day was fitted out with the most up-to-date machinery and appliances for the comfort of the employés. It was one of the show places of their city, and their products were known in every part of the world. Mr. George Jacob had taken a very active part in that great development. They made him this presentation in token of their appreciation and affection.

Mr. Hall (Liverpool) said that he had been associated with the firm for 46 years, and had witnessed the wonderful growth of the firm—progress largely due to the wisdom, foresight, energy and optimism of Mr. George Jacob.

Mr. T. Gray also spoke.

MR. JACOB'S REPLY

Mr. George Jacob, replying, asked them to accept his very grateful and heartfelt thanks for this token of their approval and of appreciation of his life-work among them. He always felt that he had their good-will, but this tangible expression of their esteem—and might he say affection—touched him deeply.

Mr. Leo Whelan was fortunate in seeing him in his halcyon days of peaceful retirement, and he hoped they would consider that the artist had produced a satisfactory result.

During his 70 years in the service of W. and R. Jacob and Co. ipany he had witnessed the wonderful growth of the business—what had been achieved was due mainly to his co-directors and to the loyal co-operation of their managers, as well as the industry of their workers. He was only the pilot, as it were, steering the ship When he retired he surrendered the position to his brother, Mr. Charles, who had carried on most efficiently. Now, said Mr. Jacob, it had passed into the hands of his son, Mr. Harold. There might be troubled waters ahead, but he thought they might feel hopeful that under his wise control, with the help of the directors and the present efficient management in both factories, the good old ship would come through safely

To the contributors from the Liverpool Company he sent his very cordial and grateful thanks for their kind participation.

The presentation having been made amid applause, Mr. Jacob said that a reproduction of the portrait would be sent to each contributor.

ATTACK ON BRITISH SOLDIER

MAN REMOVED TO HOSPITAL

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Monday.

Joseph Cunningham (44), a soldier in the British Army, home on leave, was attacked by four men to-day in Collin street, Belfast. The men called at the house, knocked at the door of his room, walked in and attacked him. He was badly handled by the men, who disappeared shortly afterwards. Assistance was summoned and Cunningham was taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital, whence he was removed to a military hospital.

JONATHAN SWIFT

BEST DEAN ST. PATRICK'S EVER HAD

At a Service in the Chapel, Trinity College, Dublin, yesterday (Trinity Monday), the Rev. R. Wyse Jackson, LL.D., Litt.D., preached a sermon in memory of Jonathan Swift, the Irish churchman (1667-1745). Jonathan Swift, he said, was a man who revealed many sides to his character. It was as Doctor of Divinity, Irish churchman and pastor that they were thinking of him that day.

That was the happiest side of Swift's nature. He did not think that anyone had satisfactorily decided what Archbishop King meant when he said: "You have just met the unhappiest man on earth." Relieving and guiding Swift's tortured spirits was a very real simple Christian belief which did bring forth good works. Swift had a real spiritual life, and he believed in prayer. He was a man of wisdom as well as of piety, but he was shy about showing his religion. He only showed them the greatest depths of his spiritual life in the moments of real need.

Dr. Jackson traced Swift's career as a pastor, his work for the Church, and spoke of the remissions he secured from Queen Anne. "Men have done less for their Church and achieved the purple," he said. Swift, he proceeded, was actuated in his satirical writings by a burning passion for justice and truth. As Dean of St. Patrick's he proved himself full of energy. He raised the standard of the Cathedral, of the choir, and of the spiritual work. He improved the quality of the Services out of recognition, and when he preached there were congregations of at least 1,000. He restored weekly Communion. He endeavoured to correct and train young preachers. He was responsible for many improvements to the fabric. He had a great love for the poor in the Liberties of St. Patrick's, and a third of his income went in charity.

He reflected credit on that College. He was the best Dean that St. Patrick's ever had, and he was a sincere Christian.

TO-DAY IN THE DAIL

Good prices were realised at the sale of furniture, etc., at Redburn House, Holywood, Co. Down, the residence of the late Mrs. V. A. B. Dunville, which opened yesterday. There was a good attendance of buyers from all parts of Ireland. The auctioneers were Messrs. J. D. Nicholl and Co., Ltd. £30 was paid for a set of ten Sheraton mahogany chairs; £75 for an Irish Chippendale mahogany side table; £18 for a smaller table of similar make; £3 5/- for an old copper coaching horn; £18 10/- for a pair of Dresden figures with Dresden wall brackets; £9 for a pair of Dresden figures of "man and woman." In the billard room a billiards table, with accessories, brought £72 19/6; a Sheraton sideboard and rosewood table brought £45 10/; an Irish Chippendale mahogany side table, £35; two Waterford glass mirrors, £34; a lady's Sheraton writing table, £35; a boudoir piano by Bluthner, £110.

The bedroom stuff was sold in the afternoon, and good prices continued to be obtained. A total of over £3,000 was realised in the day's transactions.

CARL ROSA OPERA COMPANY

"LA TRAVIATA"

Opera lovers in Dublin took a new Violetta to their bosom last night when Luella Paikin made her first appearance with the Carl Rosa Opera Company in Verdi's "La Traviata" at the Theatre Royal. Quite a big "house" attended to welcome the company on its return visit, and had as reward a production that was in many respects eminently satisfying.

Luella Paikin was outstanding for her characterisation of "La Dame Aux Camélias". In physique she suited the part, and she acted with impelling force, the play of emotions on the face being especially convincing in bringing out the message of the music. She has a very lovely soprano voice under beautiful control, particularly in the coloratura work, and her singing was always delightful. At the close she was recalled again and again, and was obviously much pleased at her reception.

John Torney was the Alfred Germont—a part in which he appears to be happy. The music lies pleasantly within his range, and brings out the lyrical beauty of his tenor voice. Except for a little slip at the outset, he was always singing and moving easily. Hubert Dunkerley was heard once again as Alfred's father, a part which he has always sung with great success. All the old charm of singing and force of action were in evidence. A notable feature of his singing, as indeed of that of all the principals, was the clarity of the diction.

The smaller parts were capably filled, and the chorus, though numerically on the small side, did their work excellently.

Charles Weber as conductor, kept the work moving, though occasionally the tempo was apt to be on the slow side. He brought out effectively Verdi's highly-coloured melodies, and in the prelude to the final act he showed the power of Verdi in the realms of polyphony. Altogether it was a very enjoyable night.

To-night—"Cavalleria Rusticana" (Mascagni), and "I Pagliacci" (Leoncavallo).

INSTITUTE OF ADVANCED STUDIES

MANY AMENDMENTS TO NEW BILL

Sir John Keane has tabled four amendments to the Bill to establish an Institute for Advanced Studies in Dublin. The effect of two of these is to make it incumbent on the Government, before setting up an additional school, to consult with the Council of the Institute. Another will require the Council to be consulted concerning the appointment of Chairman of the Governing Board of a Constituent School, and also in regard to the appointment and removal of Senior Professors.

The purpose of several of the twenty amendments submitted by Senator Tierney is to secure to the Council set up under the bill full powers over the Institute and enable it to exercise autonomy analagous to that exercised by the National University over its affairs. He proposes that ex-officio members of the Council shall be entitled, with the consent of the Minister, to nominate a substitute with the same powers as other members of the Council.

For Section 25 of the Bill, which provides for State endowment of the Institute and Constituent Schools, but does not stipulate any sum, Senator Tierney proposes to substitute a new section providing for the first five years a grant towards the administration of the Institute not exceeding £2,000 a year; a grant in respect of the School of Celtic Studies of £15,000, and a grant in respect of the School of Theoretical Physics of £3,000, in each case the unexpended balance to be returned to the Central Fund. There is a provision for the continuation of these grants in subsequent years by resolution of both Houses of the Oireachtas.

HORSE TRAINER'S RESIDENCE GUTTED

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

GORESBRIDGE, Monday.

The residence of Mr. John Kirwan, horse trainer, Gowran Park, Kilkenny, was gutted by fire, which broke out to-day at noon. The flames spread away from where the race-horses in training by Mr. Kirwan were housed.

Civic Guards and civilians battled with the blaze, but their efforts were of no avail. Scarcity of water made the efforts to cope with the outbreak also a difficulty.

NEW THEATRE GROUP

The New Theatre Group produced two plays—"Bury the Dead," by Irwin Shaw, and "Strange Dew," by Tom O'Brien—in the Peacock Theatre, Dublin, last night. The latter play is a new one—an attempt in a series of tableaux with voices to engender an impression of Irish emotion during Easter Week and after. "Bury the Dead" tells the story of a group of Americans involved in a war—"not their own cause, but Cæsar's."

Those taking part in the plays were:—Molly McGuirk, D. MacNamara, Domhnall O Conaill, D. MacGrigair, C. O'Lenihan, L. O hEidhean, Ellen O'Donohue, Bernadette Kiernan, G. MacLay, P. O Ceallaigh, A. BARONY FOR SIR HENRY PAGE CROFT

It was announced from Downing street last night that the King has conferred the dignity of a Baron of the United Kingdom on Brigadier-General Sir Henry Page Croft, Bart., M.P.

Sir Henry's elevation to the peerage will cause a by-election at Bournemouth, which he has represented as a Conservative since 1918. Only last Friday night he was appointed one of the joint Parliamentary Under-Secretaries of the War Office.

Sir Henry Page Croft will be responsible for answering for the War Office in the House of Lords.

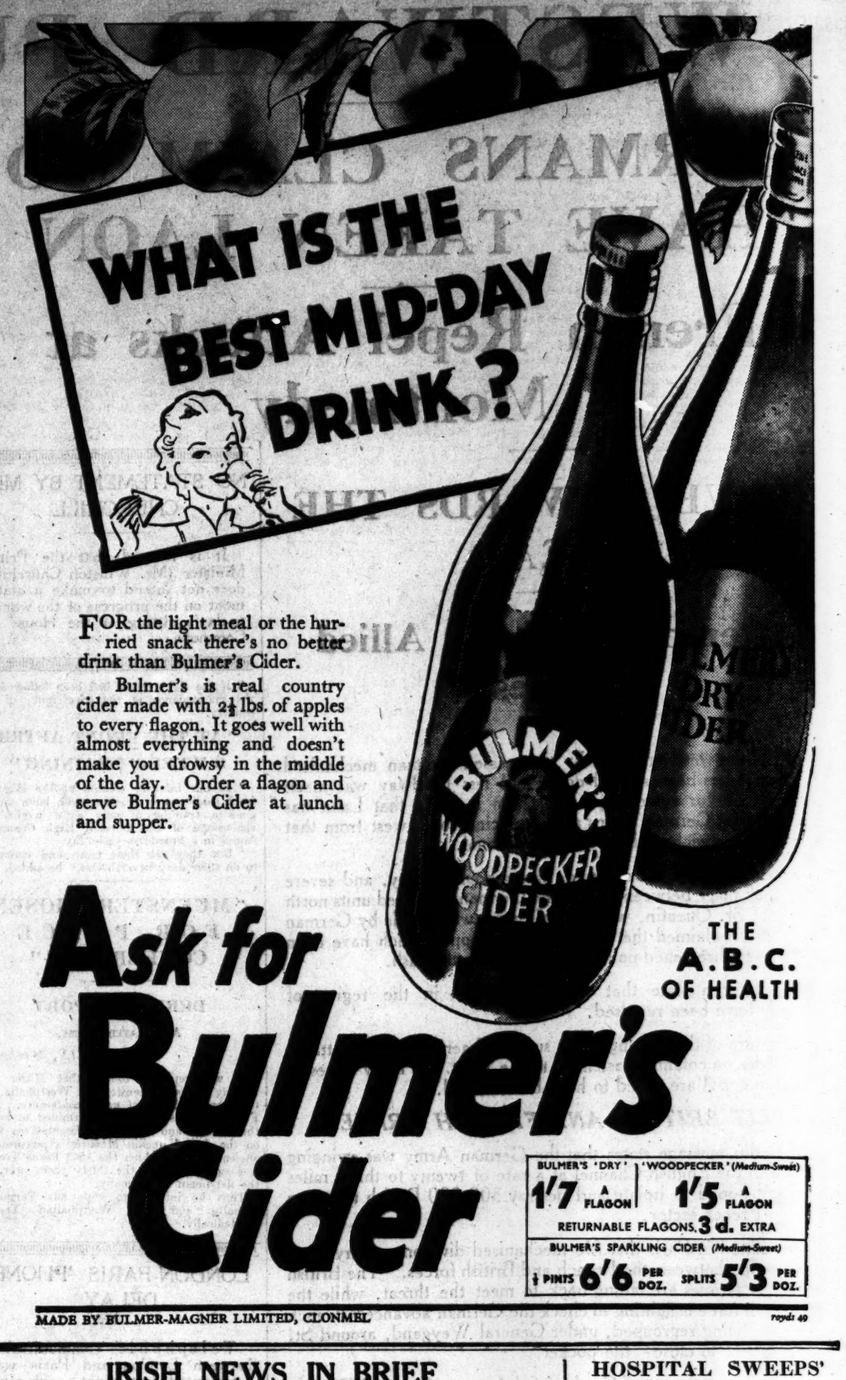

Mr. Churchill has appointed two Under-Secretaries for War, the other one being Sir Edward Grigg, who will deputise for Mr. Eden in the Commons.

CISTERCIAN BROTHER'S DEATH

The Rev. Brother Kineham, a member of the Cistercian Order, was interred yesterday in Mount St. Joseph's Abbey, Roscrea. A large number of priests and monks walked in procession, headed by the Lord Abbot, the Rev. Dom Justin MacCarthy. Brother Kineham spent thirty-eight years in the Order, and had been for a quarter of a century supervisor of the guest house attached to the Abbey.

Sentences of three months' imprisonment plus a fine of £10, or in default a further term of three months, were imposed on two men charged under the Defence of the Realm Regulations at Belfast Custody Court yesterday, before Mr. W. F. McCoy, K.C., R.M. The accused were Patrick Lyons, a native of Sligo, and James Brady, of no fixed abode.

A siren was heard over a very wide area of Belfast about half-past six yesterday morning and was mistaken apparently by some people for an air raid warning. It was later reported that it had been sounded by a ship at the docks. The blast was a long one, and not at all similar to that produced by the air raid warning sirens

HOSPITAL SWEEPS' FUNDS

LOUTH BOARD OF HEALTH COMPLAINT

When the Secretary reported to Louth Board of Health that no reply had been received from the Local Government Department to the request that a deputation of members and trades union delegates should be received in connection with the proposed new county hospital for Louth, Mr. Patrick McGuinness stated they were told 8¼ million pounds of Hospital Sweeps' money was invested, and yet men were starving for work in the building trades. The money was collected to build hospitals, and the best investment which could be made was the provision of work. What was happening now was that a lot of the money was going to revenue and excise duties when it should be utilised to provide employment.

Continuing, Mr. McGuinness said the Board were being blamed for the delay in regard to the hospital, but the fault lay with the Department. In the past two years all they had got from the Department was a green postcard.

The Board decided to again ask that a deputation should be received.

Your Child's Health is at Stake

When it comes to choosing medicine for your child there can be no two ways. Nothing but the best is good enough. A child's health is priceless and a wise mother will not dream of taking chances where that is concerned—she will never gamble with 'cheap,' untried preparations.

And so when her child suffers from one of those inevitable stomach "upsets" she turns in complete confidence to 'Milk of Magnesia.'

Doctors the world over prescribe 'Milk of Magnesia' for children's stomach ailments and to keep the bowels regular. It is wonderfully effective yet entirely harmless even to the youngest babe. Next time your child is out of sorts, listless, has stomach-ache, colic or constipation, give 'Milk of Magnesia.' You will be delighted with the quick comfort it gives; sweetening the sour stomach and relieving the bowels.

Many mothers find 'Milk of Magnesia' brand Tablets handy. Their pleasant mint flavour appeals very strongly to children, who take them eagerly.

Always remember that there is nothing "just as good" as 'Milk of Magnesia.'

Obtainable everywhere.

'Milk of Magnesia' 1/3 and 2/6 (Treble Size)
Also 'Milk of Magnesia' Tablets 6d., 1/- 2/- and 3/6.

'Milk of Magnesia' is the trade mark of Phillips' Preparation of Magnesia.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

NEWMARKET SALES

Favourable Opportunity to Secure Bargains

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Monday Night.

MESSRS. TATTERSALL are advertising for entries for their bloodstock auctions at Newmarket during the first and second July meetings at Newmarket. At the first sales, which are on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, 2nd, 3rd and 4th July, the horses in training will be offered on Tuesday morning. The remainder of the sale will be entirely devoted to yearlings. On 16th July—that is, at the second July meeting—mares, foals and sires will be offered on Tuesday morning, and the yearlings will take up the rest of the catalogue.

In view of the decision not to have sales at Doncaster, these Newmarket sales will be the most important of the season, so far as yearlings are concerned. The man who could predict at this date what the prospects are and how prices will adjust themselves would be gifted with vision that is not given to mortals.

It will be remembered that the sales that took place at Newmarket after the outbreak of the war were unexpectedly good, the mainstay of the market being the demand from the United States and South America. Can we expect that demand again? A good deal, perhaps, hinges on the question of trans-Atlantic transport, and that may be a powerful deterrent.

Transport Difficulties

American ships are not using our waters, and our own mercantile fleet is engaged otherwise. Whether United States buyers will see prospects in buying yearlings at Newmarket and leaving them in England, or, preferably, in Ireland, for a time remains to be seen.

There has seldom been a more favourable opportunity for Americans to secure genuine bloodstock "bargains." For one thing, prices will be far below pre-war levels. This is not a prophecy of evil, but a recognition of the hard facts of the situation.

Then, too, rates of exchange have become so much more favourable for prospective American buyers. Four dollars at the present sterling rate of exchange buys as much as five dollars did at the pre-war rate.

Selections

The Second Spring Meeting is due to begin to-morrow at Newmarket, and, in spite of pessimists, it is likely that it will begin and continue through the three afternoons. This day, by the way, is rather a fateful one; for it was on May 20, twenty-five years ago, that the Stewards of the Jockey Club decided that all racing, except at Newmarket, must cease forthwith.

The Burwell Stakes had promised to be a good race, but Quick Ray, perhaps the best staying four-year-old in training, has been taken out, as well as his stable companion, Hastings. Incidentally, another from Manton, the filly Golden Penny, has been taken out of the Derby.

An Excellent Chance

In the absence of Lord Astor's colt, it seems as if an excellent chance has been given to CASANOVA, who was fourth in the Derby last year. He has been absent from racecourses for a considerable time, but he has been impressing everyone at Newmarket in his recent work. His trainer also has River Prince, Controller and Grand Union in the race, so he has a big field to choose from. Casanova may, however, be the best of them.

The best in the Haverhill Stakes may be THYRSE, while FAUST will be expected to make the Spring T.Y.O. Stakes her fourth.

The Newmarket Handicap will see only a small field, and if MEADOW runs he should beat the rest.

GALTEE MORE.

PIG PRICES

Owing to a printing error in the advertisement of

MESSRS HENRY DENNY & SONS, LTD.,

Bacon Curers, Morgan Street, Waterford, which occupied this space yesterday, it was inadvertently stated that the Factory purchase price of pigs killed on to-day (Tuesday), May 21st, 1940, would be 107/- for pigs which ranged in weight from 1 cwt. 7 lb. to 1 cwt. 2 qrs. 7 lb.

This should have read 103/-.

Through a similar error it was stated that 100/- would be paid for pigs ranging in weight from 1 cwt. 28 lb. to 1 cwt. 2 qrs. 17 lb.

This should have read from 1 cwt. 2 qrs. 8 lb. to 1 cwt. 2 qrs. 17 lb.

SPORTING GOSSIP

Change of Quarters

Mr. G. Dodd's horses have left Brackenstown for other quarters.

Northern Runners at Newmarket

H. Peacock, the Richmond trainer, will have three runners at Newmarket this week: Sea Fret (J. Taylor) in the Spring T.-Y.-O. Stakes to-day, First Sight (A. Richardson) in the Sprint Stakes, and Poggio Ponente (A. Richardson) in the Lavenham Handicap to-morrow. Captain C. Elsey, the Malton trainer, will run Lion Tamer (H. Wragg) in the Wilburton Handicap on Thursday.

W. Nevett to Ride King of Trumps II.

W. Nevett has been engaged to ride King of Trumps II. in the Newmarket Stakes to-morrow. Frank Butters will also run Turkhan (R. A. Jones). G. Richards will ride Pont L'Eveque.

Golden Penny Scratched

The scratching of Lord Astor's filly, Golden Penny, from the New Derby Stakes at 9 a.m. yesterday was not a surprise. It was stated after Golden Penny had been easily beaten by Godiva in the One Thousand Guineas that she was unlikely to run in the race.

NEWMARKET HINTS

In the Apprentice Handicap here to-day Heavyweight, Noble Turk, Cholo, Renardo, Fioretti and Trellion are a batch from which the winner may come, and although Trellion came out of a mixed gallop a few days ago very satisfactorily, my choice must be

NOBLE TURK.

A moderate lot of fillies represent us in the Haverhill Stakes, but who was among the batch of M. Leon Volterra's horses which arrived here on Saturday to be trained by Frank Butters, is thought likely to prove a worthy opponent to Godiva in the Oaks. If that is so she should have no difficulty in winning this event.

In the Burwell Stakes Heliopolis is expected to put up a better performance than he did behind Quick Ray at the last fixture. However, it may be that the best from here will prove to be even though, perhaps, Captain Boyd Rochfort's charge will be all the better for this race.

FIRLE (next best), narrowly beaten by Orange River and Luminary at the Craven meeting, will appreciate the downhill finish of the Somerville Stakes, and she is confidently expected to win.

Romeo II. may not be able to give the necessary weight to Foxbrough II. and Jungle Book in the Newmarket Handicap. Having shown a return to form in recent gallops, claims my vote, although not with any degree of confidence.

FOXBROUGH II.

Almondale colt, who contests the Spring Two-year-old Stakes, may be seen to better advantage later, and I prefer Burning Bow, who has been fairly well galloped, but has derived much benefit from his previous race and should be the best to support.

POLO

ALL-IRELAND CLUB

CARLISLE WIN SENIOR CUP TIE

Carlisle won their Senior Cup tie at Kimmage last evening, beating Malahide by 33 runs after an interesting struggle. On Saturday Carlisle had put up the useful total of 242, and Malahide had replied with 129 for four wickets. Losing their fifth and sixth wickets for an addition of 19 runs, Malahide never looked like passing their opponents' score, but, thanks to a plucky effort by J. O'Hanlon, they added 37 runs before admitting defeat. In partnership with Scarff, he added 37 for the seventh wicket before the latter was l.b.w. to Solomons and Keddie helped him to put on 30 for the ninth. Score:—
Carlisle 242 (C. Warnock 63, L. Warnock 57; O'Hanlon five for 50).
Malahide 209 (A. McSwiggin 60, J. O'Hanlon 48; Solomons 5 for 76; Samuels four for 72).

FAVOURITES FAIL

Armoured Prince Wins Chief Race at Kilbeggan

OWING to the hard state of the ground, many horses that had been declared to run at Kilbeggan yesterday were non-starters. Still, the fields were of nice strength, and the racing proved quite interesting for the big crowd who were able to enjoy the sport in ideal weather conditions. It was a disastrous day for backers, not a single favourite scoring, while some of the winners were complete outsiders.

Three of the four runners for the Brusna Hurdle were well fancied, but in the running Glenkieran dominated the situation all through and won with a good bit in hand. Glenmalure, an odds-on favourite for the Midland Plate, was never able to go the pace with Star of Inverin in the closing stages, the latter gaining an easy victory in the hands of J. McCarthy.

There was another shock for backers when Knight of Venosas, carrying the colours of Captain C. B. Harty, was beaten in the Loughnagore Plate by the outsider, Miss Eileen, who led for most of the way. The winner belongs to Mr. James Rooney, and won the Farmers' Race at the Mullacurry meeting, but had performed moderately in the interim. She evidently relishes the hard going, as she strode up the hill on the last circuit in a manner to suggest that she could have carried on for another round.

A JOCKEY'S DOUBLE

Persian Rose, one of three horses sent from the Maddenstown Lodge stable to the meeting, was made favourite for the Stand Steeplechase, but he, too, had to own to defeat, being outstayed in the closing stages by Armoured Prince, who is now owned by Mr. W. J. Hilliard, and was ridden by W. T. O'Grady. This jockey was also to the fore when Mr. W. J. Purcell's Black Mask made all the running and won the Kilbeggan Challenge Cup in easy style.

The odds-on chance, Barrymore, looked to have had the Tally-Ho Plate won when he bolted into the ditch a quarter-of-a-mile from home, leaving the race at the mercy of Mr. N. B. Smyth's Bright Omen. Details:—

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

ABSENCE OF DISTRESS SELLING

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Monday.

Some of to-day's buying was attributed to oversold conditions and less apprehension regarding the war news. At the same time distress selling appears to be exhausted. The turnover of 1,240,000 shares comprised 876 stocks, of which 435 were higher and 269 were lower.

The opening was firm, and with less nervousness apparent the market advanced during the morning coincidently with the sharp rally in wheat under the leadership of the Steels and Aircrafts. Further realising reduced or erased the earlier gains and the volume increased on the set-back. However, the undertone again stiffened in the late dealings, and the close was firm.

Sterling exchange opened 2½c. higher at $3.22, and closed 6½c. up at $3.26½. Silver was ½c. higher at 35c.

LONDON MONEY MARKET

The sharp fall in the price of silver as a sequel to the British Board of Trade decision to make silver imports subject to licence provided the main feature of yesterday's Money Market. The effect of this move was to sever the previous link between the London Market and New York Market price, and prices accordingly sustained a sharp set-back. Spot fell ⅛d. to 22⅛d. per ounce, while forward lost ⅛d. to 22⅛d. per ounce. The tendency was firmer at the close. An encouraging feature was the firmness of the "free" pound in the New York market, the rate rising 4½c. in the initial dealings to reach $3.26½, the highest level touched since before the German invasion of the Low Countries. In London official rates were unchanged, but a number of "free" rates were adjusted to higher levels against the pound.

As expected competition for the offer of £1,000,000 Liverpool three months' bills was keen. Applications totalled £5,825,000, and applicants at £99 14/10 received 42 per cent. of requirements. The results were thus almost exactly the same as for recent offers of Treasury bills. Conditions in the market were quite unchanged.
